Magnetic Attraction.
Magnetic attraction is now being applied, more or less experimentally, to the detection of mines laid at sea. An electro-magnet, supported on a long arm extending forward from a ship's bow, can be made to signal the presence of a mine. Could the current be made strong enough to deflect a torpedo, another terror of the deep would gradually disappear.

An everyday remembrance, and an ideal gift—a year's subscription to the Gazette.

MARRIAGE LICENSES HAVE GOOD DEMAND

Rock County Evidently Recovers From Depressing Influence of the Eugenics Law.

When the marriage license record book at the county clerk's office is closed for 1915, more than 400 marriage licenses will have been issued for the twelve months. This is believed to be the largest number of licenses issued in any year but one, 1913, when the record of 466 was established. To date there have been 379 applicants for marriage permits, and it is safe to presume, according to officials, that twenty-five more licenses will be issued. The indications that Rock county at least is recovering from the effects of the eugenics law, and that prospective grooms no longer have a horror of the ordeal of securing a physician's certificate. The eugenics law evidently had some effect in 1914, when only 334 permits were secured. Another thing which may have some bearing on the situation is the new Illinois law which prevents almost entirely wedding hearings to Rockford or other Illinois cities.

PULLS FIRE ALARM MAILING A LETTER

Unknown Aged Woman Mistakes Fire Alarm for Mail Box and Sends in Alarm.

For the second time within a year, a fire alarm box in this city was mistaken for a mail box and the result was a false alarm. This morning about ten-thirty o'clock an aged woman, who is visiting in the third ward, desired to mail a letter. She was told that the mail box was at a certain corner and she started out to send her letter on its travels through Uncle Sam's postal system.

She looked for the mail box at the street intersection near the Jefferson school. Sure, there it was, a nicely painted red box labeled "Fire Alarm." She started to investigate. There was no opening or drop to place the letter in, but the instructions read that the glass should be broken and the door opened.

"Surely, but this was an old-fashioned mail box." But there were the instructions. The lady followed the instructions and after pulling down the lever, still could not find a proper place to put the letter. "This is a funny mail box to have all this machinery in it," and no sooner had the lever been pulled than there was the shrill shriek of the fire whistle and a clang of bells. A few seconds later two automobiles of the fire department raced up to the corner and the firemen were afraid the Jefferson school was ablaze. The fire ladders had grave fears of the outcome because of the late report regarding the school building as a "fire trap" and were pulling on their rubber coats, prepared for the worst. When they arrived and were ready to lay the hose, they found the aged lady searching for a place to put her letter.

"I did not want to embarrass her any more than she was and did not learn her name," said Chief Klein.

Meeting Postponed: On account of the sickness of Miss Sewell the rehearsal for the musical will be held on Friday evening instead of Thursday.

BASEBALL "MOGULS" MEET IN NEW YORK

Annual Meeting of League Presidents Will Furnish Real Fan Fodder During Hot Stove League.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Dec. 14.—The big season of the winter baseball season is on here today. With the heads of all National league clubs, many American moguls and scores of minor league managers on the job, the annual meeting of the Feder circuit was expected to furnish real fan fodder.

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the National league was called to order by President Tener at noon, and the full league meeting was scheduled for 2 o'clock. It has been the case for the last two years, the O. B. forces had the Federal league to talk about as well as the regular run of business. President Tener has added an interesting item to the program by acquiring a ball park in New York and vowing that he will plant a team here in 1916. The usual peace rumors were expected to get in circulation, though all concerned insist the only thought is to fight.

It has been virtually decided that the fight against the Giants in New York must be made by the Giants. This means that the National league losses will have plenty to consider. The American league's Yankees are none too strong at the moment, and the task of keeping patronage from the Feds will rest with President Hempstead, John McGraw and their men.

Uncoubtedly the question of strengthening the Giants, giving assistance of a better showing than the McGrawites displayed in the 1915 pennant hunt, will be discussed. Other club presidents are as much interested in holding New York fans as well as are the Giant owners themselves.

President Barrow and all club presidents of the International league are in town to put their names before the men of the parent body. The much talked of International had a rocky road to travel during 1915. There were times when it was thought their ghost would have to be given up. By sticking it out, however, President Barrow believes his organization will now recover and with some fighting support from the air leagues will yet down the Feds. The International league held its meeting yesterday, but everyone seemed over to whisper a few things in the ears of the National magnates.

If you want work or need help of any kind use the want ads.

HITTING DOES NOT WIN THE PENNANTS

Club Figures Show that League Must Have Something Besides Stickers to Win Championships.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
New York, Dec. 14.—That heavy hitting alone will not win baseball pennants is demonstrated by a comparison of the records of the winning club in fifteen of the leading leagues of the country. In but two cases did the team which led in batting also capture the pennant. The average position of the heaviest hitting club in each league at the end of the season was third and the average batting strength 270.

Racing Rules.
With a view to the advancement of the breeding and protection of young thoroughbreds, the Kentucky Club at its recent meeting amended the rules of racing so that no two-year-olds shall be raced before the first of April, beginning with the season of 1917. In other words the new rule will apply for the first time to foals dropped this year. Capt. Edward B. Cassatt, a prominent race horse owner and breeder, proposed this change over a year ago and its announcement then brought forth a storm of protest from associations in the meantime, however, the Kentucky race governing bodies as well as the Canadian association concurred in the change and the recent action of the Jockey Club was the result of general acceptance of the proposition.

Capt. Cassatt framed the rule in the interests of home breeding and to insure a sturdier race of thoroughbreds. Heretofore many promising colts and fillies have been injudiciously raced at such a tender age and coupled so that they became practically useless for either breeding or racing purposes when they should have been in their prime. The penalty that will be imposed as soon as amendment becomes operative is the horse's disqualification from all races under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club for the remainder of his two-year-old season.

Baseball Meets.
The annual meeting of the big baseball leagues are the outstanding features of the present week in sports. The International league holds its conference in New York, Dec. 13 and the National league follows a day later. On Wednesday, Dec. 15, the American league magnates gathered in Chicago for their annual session. On the boxing program, the opening of bids for the Freddie Welsh-Charley White lightweight championship bout will be an event of interest to all followers of pugilism.

Another Barrett.
Eastern college circles are interested in the report that Barrett, the famous sprinting halfback of the Washington and Lee eleven, may enter Cornell next fall. While he would not be eligible for the 1916 season, Barrett is as important a name as the name of the Cornell eleven to victory during the past season just closed.

PARKER TEAM TAKES GAME FROM RIBBONS

Parker Pen Five Win From Blue Ribbon Team—Sox Win—Miller's Janesville Team Loss to Rockford Five.

Last night at the Miller alleys the Blue Ribbon bowling five lost in a matched game with the Parker Pen five. The Ribbon team started out in the first event and lead the Parker by a wide margin. The next two events they fell down and were beaten. Nehr rolled the high score with 203 pins.

Sox Win.
The Sox team won easily from the Maroons last night by a margin of 192 pins. Grove took the honors for high man, rolling 210 in the second event.

Miller's Janesville team went down to the Line City last night and rolled a matched game against the Rockford Lewis Branch team. Again they met defeat. In the first event it looked as though the local team might have a chance, for they lead the Rockford team by 65 pins. Osborn was high man in the match, rolling 237 pins in the first event. The two hundred mark was touched many times by other players. Lineups:

MORRIS MILLER

Here's a little history about Leon Ames. When Herzog decided to attach the tin to La Kalamity were no takers in sight. It so happened, though, that Huggins' pitch was a gambler's chance on Ames. A month, reserving the right to ship Leon back after a thirty-day trial, came along, won nine games out of twelve, and the Cardinals from last place, robbed the Reds of a first division berth, and made Herzog a sick fish. Ames is considered one of the prime assets for next season. His mastery over a low curve ball, something he never had before, explains his sudden success. Ames reached that stage where he must raise his head as much as his arm. Griffith says then, and only then, does a pitcher become a pitcher.

Harvard's objection to numbering its football players is a coming and going proposition entirely. Football players at Harvard are no more than skinned about wearing numbers across their manly shoulder blades than they are elsewhere. The coaches, however, believe that the wearing of numbers greatly facilitates scouting by opponents, and are quite unwilling to give Princeton and Yale this degree of assistance. Of course, if they all do it, it is fair for one as it is for all, but this view of the matter does not appeal to the football solons of Cambridge.

In speaking of Chief Bender's suit for over $5,000, President Gilmore of the Feds says: "Chief Bender does not owe anybody a penny. Bender was let go simply because he was not in condition to earn the big salary he was paying him. He was not released because of poor work. Why, if we started to clean out those old fellows we should have fired thirty to forty high-salaried old-timers who did not earn anything. However, they always were in condition, were willing and when called upon did their best."

Penn is to have a wrestling team that is somewhat cosmopolitan, according to report. First of all there is the famous Greek, Mike Dorizas. Then there is a Chinese student, P. P. Lee, who is 175 pounds, and D. G. Lew, a Japanese student, who weighs 188 pounds. There is a suspicious similarity to Lew and Lee that makes one wonder if someone has blundered in reporting the team's personnel.

It is hinted that there may be two new managers announced for National league teams before the December meeting is over. In one case there is a vacancy through the retirement to farm life of the former leader in the other instance a startling surprise quietly debated.

The strike-out king of the season was young Mr. Baird of Pittsburgh, who rudely waved his bat 83 times or, to count the strikes, exactly 264 times—in the vacant atmosphere and pulled it in 284 times without finding anything on it. The base on balls champion was the huge Cravath. He drew 86 passes, and it's a certain cinch that at least 60 of the 86 passes were handed him purposely rather than have him smite the sphere with men on bases.

Taken as a net proposition, the govt. of the 1915 season seems to have been the gentlemanly and thoroughly likeable young fellow, Karl Adams of the Cubs, formerly a Red. In 26 games Mr. Adams won only one time out and lost nine decisions; 4.71 earned runs per game were made off him, and to cap the climax, he himself didn't make a base hit of any kind during the whole season—a record almost without a parallel.

Ray Chapman and Guy Morton, shortstop extraordinaire and pitcher superb respectively of the Indians, aren't the only Cleveland players Charles W. Somers could market for a good price were C. W. in a selling mood. Elmer Smith, right fielder, stands pretty high in the estimation of rival club managers. While it's true that Smith didn't cut any great dices as a hitter, he finished with a batting average of only .248 still he was there with the wallop when men were on bases and that's what a manager likes about a hitter above everything else. He led the Indians in driving in runs, with seventy, which makes him loom up as valuable as a .300 hitter.

Get Wrong Impression.
"A heap of unhappiness," remarked Uncle Eben, "is due to a way a girl figures out de chance of a man's betin' a good pervicer by his willingness to buy ice cream soda."

A presidential campaign no longer upsets finance and industry. It is only the man who claims to be the champion roller skater of the world who needs to worry about the future of his business.

Assay any boy and you will find traces of free milling real estate.

One test of a man's popularity is his ability to wear rubber heels and retain it.

Talk to any woman long enough and you will find that the dentist overcharged her. Not only that, but you will learn the amount she paid him.

The case of the Illinois millionaire who wanted to marry his niece also establishes the fact that occasionally there is a man who doesn't hate his relatives.

You may be able to clean up all of the other claimants to the title, but you can't whip Kid Alcoholic.

"Don't bake the beans," says one of the advertisements. That is good advice. Instead, let the garbage man take them away.

Give a woman enough money to furnish a house and she will come home with an Oriental rug and a headache.

If a man can be left alone with his own gas meter he has gone far toward establishing the fact that he is honest.

Being a demagogue pays for a time, but the salary that goes with the situation eventually is cut off.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

MANY men seem surprised when they find out for themselves that W-B CUT Chewing—the Real Tobacco Chew, new cut, long shred—is really much better than ordinary tobacco; to find that a small chew satisfies; that they don't have to grind it; and that it lasts longer than the ordinary kind.

Rings of Saturn.
Recent spectroscopic analysis of Saturn's rings indicates that they are composed of solid matter, probably dust, that is, nebular matter which has passed through its liquid to solid form, and is now furnishing that planet with a dustlike material similar to that of the earth during the quaternary period.

USEFUL GIFTS.

This is supposed to be a practical age, but many impractical people live in it. You can always see that at Christmas time. After the gifts are distributed, there are plenty of people who wish they had the money the things cost.

What mountains of useless bric-a-brac used to be accumulated. Most of our homes contain a dusty and melancholy remnant of mistaken gifts. Fortunately careless children and housemaids dispose of much of this stuff by breakage. But it is often the ugly thing that defies rough usage, still, such trash can always be sent to the charity rummage sale.

Much might be written about the useless and grotesque ornaments that used to be offered as gifts. Some of us can recall the fake vases and pitchers, gorgeously ornamented with gift or foliage, but which had false top and would hold neither flowers nor water. Yet they were supposed by many to be very "recherche." Then there were the ribbon calendars, with three ribbons to be pulled down each day, to show the month, the day of the month, and day of the week. Friendship was rarely fervent enough to keep them going more than a fortnight. The disappearance of such useless gifts was always embarrassing when the gifts were called. But there are limits to friendship.

While many unserviceable gifts are still made at Christmas, there is more tendency now toward really practical remembrances. A great deal of substantial clothing, furniture, table ware, and dry goods, is used for presents. The average man would rather have a 50 cent necktie, selected with due regard to his own tastes, than the best $5.00 handkerchief case or decorated cigar holder that can be found among the fancy goods. Yet anything really beautiful, a well painted or photographed picture, a finely executed piece of silver, glass, pottery, is always welcome. It should serve some useful household end. Buying for pure ornament is precarious. Standards of beauty change rapidly. What is called fine today may be obsolete tomorrow.

OUR PEACE PROPAGANDISTS.

Not because they make themselves and perhaps, to some extent, their country ridiculous in foreign eyes, but because they do more harm than good, it is necessary to protest once more against the activities of our peace propagandists. Their arguments are based upon age-worn fallacies. The principal one is that peace is a good thing in itself, irrespective of how it is attained. Peace may be a very bad thing and, to a nation, much worse than war. Even national death is better than some conditions of life.

One of these well-meaning persons, writing to an eastern publication, says, for instance: "All wars are caused by a conflict in the ambitions of the rulers." On its face the statement is flat nonsense. The civil war was not caused by a conflict between Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. The war of independence was not caused by the conflicting ambitions of George III. and George Washington. If the queen of Spain and President McKinley had been allowed a real voice in the matter, we should have had no war with Spain.

It is true that there may be an ambitious ruler on one side, but in the present case at least there is no ambitious ruler on the other. It is suggested that George V. wants any part of Germany, or that President Poincaré is ambitious for territorial extension, or that King Albert of Belgium wishes to attain the magnificence of a Louis XIV? It is this avalanche of rubbish, dumped upon the newspapers, which is smothering the issue.

Peace is only a negative condition. It means the absence of war. A people that has drifted into cloistral ease, as all history shows, almost uniformly deteriorates. It becomes like the man who feels rich enough to take his exercise in an automobile, and finds, when he is called upon for muscular and moral energy, that he has unconsciously relinquished those essentials.

War is a dreadful thing, remarkably like a number of other dreadful things, like tuberculosis, or other plagues, which destroy their victims in a more numerous but less spectacular way than war. But this peace propaganda is largely hysterical, mainly born of fear and that exaggerated importance attached to death which peace seems to breed.

When it comes to dying, which would a man of courage choose? Between the life-in-death of an assured, defective, scientifically saved infancy, or a bullet through his head in a muddy trench? If his chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever, as a great many of us are old-fashioned enough to believe, the confidence of going to Heaven makes death a minor incident. Indeed what Charles Frohman called it, "near his own death," "the most beautiful adventure in life."

This war is fought to establish a principle, and peace will ensue when that has been established. Until it is so established, it needs no prophet to say that the British navy will hold the seas, and the upper hand, until the salt sea freezes over, and will fight out, if necessary, the principle of government by consent of the governed against imperial autocracy, on the ice.

NEW FACES SEEN.

The opening of a new congress is like the first day of school. The new congressman may prepare a very able and thoughtful speech. But probably all he will get will be three minutes and the chance to "extend" his remarks in the chamber. Then he can mail it to his constituents. If he has liberal views of exact truth, he can insert "Applause" where he thinks they would have applauded had they heard it.

He soon finds that his principal function is to be errand boy for his constituents. One town wants a post office building, another its river improvement, a battalion of office-seekers must be seen, assisted, and introduced, garden seeds must be distributed, public documents must be furnished. Most of his duties could be performed by his secretary.

He can satisfy all pressing demands if he runs the necessary errands, and votes on important roll calls with his party. Committee appointments for the new member are unimportant, and the sessions brief and few.

The lower branch is unwieldy. It has too large a membership, due to the fact that it is practically impossible on a new apportionment to cut down the representation of any state. The ball is too big for debate.

All which tends to concentrate business in few hands. Real decisions are made in the lobbies. The new member sinks into the background, and real power is swayed by a small group. With a more restricted membership, every member of the house of representatives could have a place on a committee of some importance, where ability would be given a chance to show itself.

READY FOR ALL.

Janesville business houses are ready to meet any demand that may be made upon them for almost everything under the sun. There is no need for the housewife to look over her mail order house catalogue, read the columns of city newspapers for bargains, if she watches the unusual offerings made by the Janesville merchants in the Gazette. There are a lot of people who are ready to tell how Martin the murderer would have been captured if "Bill Smith" or some other hero of days departed were alive and on the job, but it is safe to say that none of these talkers would take the chances of even looking behind their grandfathers' sheds if they knew he was there.

Governor Philipp has been asked to explain a lot of figures by our senior senator who a few years ago did not believe that federal officials should interfere in state affairs. The burning question is, How can Wisconsin's senior senator spare the time from the present session of congress to campaign for his own personal interests?

Christmas is coming. Have you put aside your charity contribution? If not, leave a check or cash at the Gazette office for the use of the Associated Charities for their Christmas baskets and presents.

BUSINESS SECTION OF NEEDED WIPED OUT BY FIRE TODAY

Juneau County Town Suffers Enormous Loss from Conflagration Starting in Department Store.

(By Associated Press.)

La Crosse, Dec. 14.—Necedah, a city in Juneau county was threatened with destruction today when a fire breaking out in the Greenberg department store shortly after ten o'clock wiped out the entire business section. The cause of the fire was not known at the time.

The fire departments from New Lisbon and Grand Rapids answered to the call and rushed to the town at once, where efforts were made to check the advance of the fire.

At noon two business blocks had been burned and work was sent to La Crosse over the telephone that the entire section of five blocks would be destroyed. The principal buildings in Necedah are already burned to the ground.

The residence section, however, will be saved. The buildings destroyed are: Greenberg Department store, Bulzer restaurant, Melchior bakery, Williams Brothers' hardware store, Paulson restaurant, Dr. Parnum's drug store and office, Bailey drug store, Dr. Sinclair's dental office, Necedah bank, Kotter shoe shop, Tuka saloon and Berdon saloon.

The New Lisbon fire department arrived at noon and several engines began pumping water out of the little yellow river.

Most of the buildings are old and inflammable. It was necessary to remove valuable papers to the residence district for safety. The loss will amount to many thousands of dollars. At noon there was no report of loss of life.

JURY FINDS MARTIN MURDERER OF GIRL

feet that Martin had his clothes packed only asked a few questions to the effect ready to leave in an instant. The jury also told of the statement made to other Italians that Martin intended to go back to Italy within a short time. He also stated that an attempt was being made to trace a suit case that it is supposed Martin shipped to Beloit or Chicago on Thursday last, which would be the day previous to the murder. No testimony was found in the letters or notes that were found in a wallet in Martin's suit case obtained at the Lawrence home.

Mrs. Lawrence, mother of the slain girl, appeared in mourning costume and heavily veiled, told of the implicating statement of Maude Lawrence said, "Mother, Tony was a murderer."

The veiled remark made by Martin that she would not laugh again, before the murder, was also introduced as evidence. Mrs. Lawrence testified from the two sisters of the girl, spurring them from the added grief.

The jury's verdict was prepared for them and as soon as the six men and one woman returned to the courtroom they were taken to the jury room.

This is the first coroner's inquest held in the city of Janesville since the Bergstrom murder about four years ago.

No Trace of Fugitive.

This morning the police were as much as sea as ever to locate Martin to bring him to justice. The further trace of him had been found or the slightest clue where he may be hiding. They have not given up hopes of apprehending him, however, and continue to work diligently on the case. If the suit case, which it is believed Martin sent to Beloit the day before the crime, can be found, it will furnish a good method of tracing the alleged murderer.

Dan Terresa, the Italian detective of the Beloit department, has been in the city working on the murder case, giving his services to the Janesville police. He questioned many Italians but was unable to obtain any information that would lead to Martin's arrest. It was pointed out by Terresa that Italians seek aid and refuge from other Italians who come from the same provinces. That is to say, that Martin would surely seek aid and shelter from Italians from Sicily or of certain part of the island. Once he is in the hands of Sicilian friends the authorities, it was said, had only slight hopes of finding him.

An attempt will probably be made to have the county board appropriate a fund for emergency use in future cases of this kind, for the offering of rewards. The police county authorities are powerless to offer any reward for Martin's capture until the county board meet and vote upon the question next month. Without the city council offers a reward, it is doubtful a price will be placed upon Martin's head.

PAULINE FREDERICK IN EMOTIONAL ROLE

Mrs. Carter's Famous Play Seen in Picture Form.
Pauline Frederick was seen at the Apollo yesterday in the Famous Players' revival of the demi-monde play in which Mrs. Carter won large acclaim. Miss Frederick has interpreted her role with marvelous sympathy and mastery. Julian L'Estrange was seen as Duffene and Ruth Sinclair as his wife.
The play was sumptuously produced and presented and while the story did not please all, one could not help but credit the cast with unusual ability.

SHATTUCK'S RECITAL IS MOST PLEASING

Program of Rare Artistic Merit Is Enjoyed Last Evening at Apollo Club.
(By J. Francis Connors.)
Arthur Shattuck in piano recital as the third entertainment of the year presented by the Apollo club, achieved a triumph which only the most finished artists can win. It was a long of the best in music in this city.
Wisconsin is honored inasmuch as the soloist was born and received his early education at Neenah. At about the age of twelve Mr. Shattuck went himself to foreign fields and continued his studies in Berlin, Vienna and Paris, and for the last fifteen years, not concentrating, he made his home in Paris. Shattuck most efficiently made the most of his opportunity in preparing himself for a pianistic career, as he mastered not only his musical education in piano and composition, but also the French and German languages, as he speaks both like a native.

In commenting upon his pianistic ability, he has already been recognized and his efforts appreciated in nearly all lands on the civilized globe. His traveling concert engagements ranged from Russia, Roumania and the Slav countries westward to the United States. But before returning to America to concertize, he established an enviable record in Europe as one of the "only too few" gifted American-born artists in his line so that he was immediately recognized as a soloist of the highest rank, because unfortunately even to this day, notwithstanding the agitation for the recognition of artists that are wholly American born and American educated, fully ninety-four percent of the American musical public refuse to give an American an educated product to the same degree as a European, and very often the foreigner has only a mediocre ability but more than retails by having a name notably characteristic of his inability to be pronounced.

Mr. Shattuck presented a well-balanced program just lengthily enough not to tire the listener, and it ranged from the ancient musical classics down to the modern school. It would be difficult to say which number pleased the most as he was heartily applauded after every piece. He brought the theme of the Bach's Albert Fugue to a grand and complete rendition of the Liszt's Concerto Waltz in E Major.
He possessed a marvelous technique and a broad and comprehensive understanding of his numbers. His one production was a work of genius and in accuracy in playing was a veritable revelation. Candidly he more than deserves criticism in superlatives and it is merited. The Apollo club is to be commended for its foresight in engaging such an artist. It is to be regretted that he was not more prominently advertised and greeted with a full house. Following is his program:

a. Bach's Albert ..... Prelude, F. Minor
b. Lull's Diener ..... Air tendre
c. Bach's Busoni ..... Courante
d. Reynold's Hahn, Sonatina, C. Major

NEW ORGANIZATION ORGANIZED AT H. S.

AMERICAN LEAGUE HEADS
MEET IN CHICAGO TODAY
Chicago, Dec. 14.—American league baseball magnates and managers gathered here today for the opening of the yearly meeting and gabfest at the Congress hotel tomorrow morning.
On the edges of the crowd of magnates today was the usual quota of baseball players ready to horn in whenever the herring appeared propitious.
The magnates here or expected tonight were: Charles A. Comiskey, Chicago; R. L. Hodges, St. Louis; F. J. Nevin, Detroit; E. F. Somers, Cleveland; Ben S. Minor, Washington; Connie Mack, Philadelphia; Col. Albert and Capt. Huston, New York; and Joseph J. Lannan, Boston. It was reported that Gary Hartman, as a member of the National Commission might drop in in a purely official informal sort of way before the sessions are over, to receive any suggestions the American leaguers may have to make for next year.

AT THE APOLLO.

Lou Tellegen in "The Explorer" Tonight.
Dorothy Day, the clever actress who plays Lucy Allerton with the distinguished dramatic star, Lou Tellegen, is a niece of the late Panny Day, and received the foundation of dramatic training as a member of Panny Day's company. Lou Tellegen will be seen at the Apollo tonight in a photo-dramatized version of William Somerset Maugham's famous novel, "The Explorer".
Lou Tellegen was for several years leading man for Sarah Bernhardt. In this picture she makes his first appearance in motion pictures. "The Explorer" is a very interesting story of love and adventure.

AT THE APOLLO.

Mary Pickford in a Unique Characterization "A Girl of Yesterday".
One of the most novel picture offerings ever presented is The Famous Players' Film Company's latest contribution to the Paramount Program at the Apollo tomorrow, starring Mary Pickford.
As the title character, "Little Mary" is called upon to portray one of the most unusual creatures ever made the central figure of a film plot. The story contrasts in a remarkably graphic manner the customs of yesterday with those of today, indicating the difference of their influence upon romance. As the said, prim and unsophisticated little country girl, the reincarnation of our mothers' grandmothers, and, subsequently, as the center of attraction in the modern world of society, she is the luxury, pomp and ceremonies of the elite of today. Mary Pickford characterizes a double triumph of character depiction that will rank with the best of her inimitable creations.

Aside from the inherent charm and interest of the quaint story, the production attaches importances because in it the world-famous aviator, Glenn Martin, makes his screen debut. It is also the first time in Miss Pickford's career that she has taken an aeroplane flight, and thus the honors arrived from the fact of a noted aviator and the idolized star are equally shared.
Miss Pickford's transition from the meek and obscure girl of yesterday to the unadorned, daring and irresistible girl of today is effected with her customary skill and mastery of difficult situations.
This unique feature attraction will be presented at four shows, regular matinee at 2:30, children's matinee at 4:15 and two night shows.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

The amazing success of "On Trial" in New York is the principal topic of conversation in theatrical circles. No picture produced in recent years gained such instant recognition as did this remarkable piece of dramatic literature, which contains a story that is full of dramatic suspense and is filled in the margin with powerful and thrilling moments. It is more than natural then that Manager Myers should be particularly pleased over the contract he has just made with Cohen and Harris for the presentation of "On Trial" at Myers Theatre, Monday, Dec. 16.

FRENCH LORRAINE BIGGEST CEMETERY IN THE WORLD NOW

Colonies of Dead Lie Everywhere
After Shifting Battles—Lines of Wooden Crosses.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Pont-a-Mousson, France, Dec. 14.—French Lorraine is the greatest cemetery in the world. Colonies of dead, marked by lines of crude wooden crosses, lie everywhere under newly formed sod at the edges of woods and thickets and in ravines. Germans and French. The shifting of battle scenes may be traced by following them. They are thickest where there was fought the great battle for Nancy that began with the retreat of the French from Morhange and reached its climax during the battle of the Marne. The number has been continually swelled since in the fourteen months' struggle in the Woëvre and the Vosges. Saint Genevieve, Essey, the Amnons, the Heights of Cutties, Veuville, Gerbeville, the Grand Couronné de Nancy, Etain, the Esbarges, the Bois Brule, the Bois Apremont, the Bois Saint Mansuy, and the Bois Le Pretrie in the Woëvre are so many cemeteries, nearly all of them with crosses bearing names already illustrious. Lionel Rieux, the poet lies at Essey; Paul Vial, who received a bullet in his heart, in the Saint Mansuy Woods. Among the French buried at Gerbeville is Jean Martin, one of the most promising pupils of the French Art School at Rome. He fell with the heroic handful of chasseurs that began the Montagne there against 40,000 Germans during the eleven hours. Marcel Drouot is among those who lie at the summit of the Sarnaneux hill. The dead lie thickest perhaps at Gap. After the Germans had captured Nomeny and Pont-a-Mousson, they sent a regiment to force this passage between two heights, held by a single company of French infantry. That gap became the tomb of the entire regiment. The cemetery of St. Genevieve is not so dense but far more extended than that of the Loisy Gap. The Germans, forced by the resistance of the company of infantry at Loisy to try to "flank" movement around the heights of Saint Genevieve, obtained a success before the heights of Cutties, where French crosses predominate. It was then, thinking he saw the route open up for his troops, the Emperor of Germany issued his famous order of the day, "Tomorrow in Nancy." Saint Genevieve was still between his majesty's troops and the Lorraine capital; it is today the cemetery of most of them. The French too, fell in such numbers there as to disquiet the officers, who called the attention of the commandant to the losses.

"No matter," replied the commandant, "we don't give an inch. It required an order from the general to induce him to take up a stronger position a little in the rear."
During the attacks upon the plateau of Amance, captured on the 7th and retaken by General Dubail on the 8th, Emperor William is said to have observed the action from the edge of the Morel Woods, behind which were concealed the 10,000 horsemen of the Prussian Guard—his escort into Nancy. Veldine fell and Uhland and Bavarian infantry surged into the passage between the two heights of Amance. "If we can hold out the day it will be a miracle," said the French general in command. The 3-inchers increased their fire to the maximum speed just then and mowed those Uhland and Bavarians down before they could debouch from the defile; they lie there today in serried ranks over which a woody sod has formed. The 10,000 cavalry of the guard galloped off toward Metz, and a parliamentarian with a white flag asked "in the name of his majesty" for an armistice of 24 hours to bury the dead.

"In 24 hours," replied the French general, "when the emperor shall have given sepulchre to his thousands of dead, we shall be ready for him again."
An estimated proportion of three Germans to one Frenchman buried in the battlefields of the Grand Couronné de Nancy, extending in a semi-circle from Gerbeville to Pont-a-Mousson on the east bank of the Moselle, naturally takes no account of the thousands of Bavarian dead removed at night by rail toward Metz, after the battle of Sainte Genevieve, which decided the issue of the struggle for Nancy; nor does it comprise the heavy death role of the French in annexed Lorraine, just over the frontier, in the disaster of Morhange.

The evidence of those who have visited all the battlefields of Lorraine and those who helped pick up the dead after the battle of Nancy tends to the belief that taking the French dead in German Lorraine and the German dead carried from the field of battle, there is no exaggeration in the estimate of three Germans to one Frenchman as the proportion of those killed in the operations in the attack and defense of Nancy.
Pious hands are caring for these cemeteries, even so close to the battle front that the German heavy artillery often takes up the sod and sends the crosses flying in granite. Flowers are planted on all the French graves and the tri-color floats over many of them. The graves of the Germans are sacredly protected but not decorated.

HENRY THORP DIES AT MONROE RECENTLY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Dec. 14.—Death summons came to Henry Thorp, well known and highly respected citizen of the city, at his home, 201 East Russell street, after an illness extending a period of almost a year, during which he was a patient sufferer.
Mr. Thorp was seventy-seven years of age and was a native of Stephenson county, Illinois. He came to this county with his parents when two years of age and had resided in this county the past seventy-five years.
He was known as one of the leading farmers of the county and was an upright and influential citizen. He was a member of the city council for a number of terms.
Besides his widow, two sons, George E. Thorp of this city, and Eugene B. Thorp, survive. The latter with his family is spending the winter in Arizona. One son, Frank, is deceased.

DELAVER CITY COUNCIL REVOKE LIGHT CONTRACT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Delavan, Dec. 13.—Because of the rumor that two additional electric companies contemplate entering this field to sell current, and which it is claimed will sell current 30 per cent cheaper than that is now supplied through the local company, the city council has revoked a provisional contract submitted a short time ago to the local company. It is practically decided by the city to install its own equipment and purchase current for the same through some one of the new companies unless the local company reduces its rates.
The contract that had been tendered by the city to the United Heat, Light and Power company provided a rate of $42 per lamp for eighty-three or more lamps, of 250 candle-power. The old contract with the same company expired several months ago. Two or three provisional contracts had been submitted, but none had been accepted. The prospect of new concerns entering the field has aroused great interest, and leads to the belief that an electrical current war is certain to follow for this entire section of the state, particularly in the cities of Delavan, Mukwonago, and others in the nearby territory.

W. C. VAN VELZER IS BURIED AT DELAVAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Delavan, Dec. 13.—Washington C. Van Velzer, aged 68, a pioneer business man, having for more than forty years been engaged in the cigar business here, will be buried Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Van Velzer died at his late home here Saturday evening after several days' illness from pneumonia.
Because of his many years in the cigar business, much of his time being on the road as a salesman, he was regarded as one of the best known tobacco men in the state. He was associated in business in late years with his son, P. B., the factory manufacturing some of the best brands of cigars on the market. Previously he with his brother, Ferd, were in the cigar business here, later entering into the manufacturing, which has been continued by the deceased and his son.

EDWARD J. GRIFFITHS HAS BONDS FURNISHED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, Wis., Dec. 14.—Chicago relatives of Edward J. Griffiths, detained in the county jail awaiting his preliminary examination, have come to his relief and telegraphed money for his bonds. He will be released.
Griffiths is charged with perjury in connection with an examination prior to the action of divorce brought by Mrs. Nettie S. Wright, in which he swore he was practically penniless, although it is alleged it has since been discovered he had money on deposit in a Chicago bank.

"Here's That Fine Coffee, Mother! Say, Boys, They Give Money for the Coupons!"

MADAM, here is a coffee that will be the biggest surprise in all your coffee experience. It is a new coffee, made surpassingly rich by a new process, and sold to you on a new plan.

No other coffee you can buy, at the price of Hall's Prosperity Coffee, can compare with it in superb flavor, freshness, cleanliness and uniform quality. It is an exceptionally healthful coffee because of its freedom from impurities and from the fact that it contains the richest, most perfect of all the coffee beans.

It is simply that this coffee is prepared in an entirely new and wonderful way. With this process, we are revolutionizing coffee flavor and coffee prices.

Hall's Gravity-Graded

PROSPERITY COFFEE

Understand, please, that Hall's Prosperity Coffee is not a patent, adulterated, or treated coffee in any sense. It is all coffee, genuine coffee, absolutely nothing but coffee. There is nothing added. The process that makes Hall's Prosperity Coffee best is simply that the very richest, heaviest beans are retained, and other beans of inferior quality taken out. Never before has this been possible.

In all coffee as it comes from the grower, there are small beans, large beans, withered beans, bits of beans, very heavy, very light, soft beans, rock-like beans, unripe beans. The usual way to "grade" coffee—the only way the past has known—is to "screen" it in an attempt to have all poor beans taken out, that is—by shaking the coffee through screens, so that the large beans are separated from the smaller.

But the size of the bean is not a test of coffee quality. The weight of the bean is the only true test. Many of the largest beans are very light in weight. Light beans are immature, and weak in coffee flavor. So, by the old and imperfect screening process, many worthless beans are left in.

These ruin rich coffee flavor—simply because all the beans from the very light to the very heavy ones, although of the same size, are roasted alike. Result: the light beans are over-roasted and embitter coffee flavor; the heavy beans are under-roasted and rob the coffee of the flavor it ought to have.

Hall's Prosperity Coffee, on the contrary, goes through the new, gravity-grading process, which automatically selects the very heaviest beans, and throws out the rest. It selects by weight, instead of guessing at it by size. The heaviest beans are the richest, most highly flavored beans—and being all of the same weight, perfect, uniform roasting is absolutely assured.

No other process in the world can produce the same result. It gives the richest possible flavor to coffee, because the richest beans are used.

That's why Hall's Prosperity Coffee will be a new surprise to you. You'll say you never tasted such a superb flavor in all your life.

But it costs you no more than any kind of coffee you have bought before, simply because by this new process the bigger cost of selecting coffee-beans by the old guesswork method is much reduced.

Try this new coffee tomorrow morning. You'll enjoy the rare taste of real rich coffee that you perhaps never experienced before.

This gives you One Dollar in cash for fifty cents, and after that more coupons will entitle you to more money to be added to your savings account without any cash payment whatever to be sent with the coupons. Our new plan is fully explained on each package of Hall's Prosperity Coffee. Here's the golden chance for the boy or girl in your home to have a real Savings Bank Account.

Hall's Prosperity Coffee, is sold at 30c and 35c, in 1-pound sealed packages. The difference in these prices is simply the difference in the proportion of high-grade coffees used in the blends. There is no difference in the process, each is gravity-graded and each contains the richest beans of the coffee used. There is also the 25c grade, steel-cut and richly blended. The world's best 25c coffee. Prosperity Coffee Savings Coupons on all packages.

WHAT COUNTY AGENT DID AT EAU CLAIRE

WORK ACCOMPLISHED DURING LAST SEASON SHOWS IMPORTANCE OF SUCH ACTIVITY.

HAD WIDE INFLUENCE

Four Distinct Projects Conducted for Benefit of Farmers in Addition to Routine Matters.

Discussion of the county agricultural agent is common among Rock county farmers since the question of providing funds for such an official will be acted upon at the next meeting of the board of supervisors at their January meeting. An effort is being made by the organizations of business men in Beloit and Janesville to enlighten the whole community as to the functions of the proposed official.

A copy of the report of the county agent for Eau Claire county, which has been received, showed the varied activities which such an office carries on. Four distinct projects were completed by G. R. Ingalls, the Eau Claire agent, the first, a trial plot on the fair grounds; the second, visits to the homes of short course and training school students; the third, demonstration of the use of ammonium sulphate on potatoes; and the fourth, the organization of cow testing associations. It might be explained that Eau Claire county is an agricultural training school of its own which works in co-operation with the county agent.

In addition, the agent reports his other activities as follows:

"Number of meetings, twenty-eight; attendance approximately, 1880; average, sixty-seven. Value of farm products exchanged, $3,000; twenty farms supplied with labor; fifty-two farm management surveys made; three seed potato inspection made; 200 tons of ground lime rock ordered; 200 applications for soil analysis which are being made; 222 butter fat tests; 250 visits to farms; 10 individual farmers visited; assisted in the re-organization of the Eau Claire County Cow Testing Association No. 2 for its second year's work. Five hundred cows under test.

"Personal calls and inquiries by mail in regard to where live stock, seed grains, lime and dairy apparatus could be secured. Inquiries regarding alfalfa and soy bean culture, methods for preventing diseases of seed grains, fruits, vegetables and live stock, and the securing of capital by new settlers are along the lines of inquiry made of which no record is kept.

The object of the first project conducted, that of a trial plot, was to establish a rotation and make determinations that would be of value to local farmers. The plot was set aside for this work; one-half acre was planted to potatoes, one-half of which was treated with Bordeaux zinc and the other half with Paris Green as is usually done; one-half acre was planted to corn on which the following fertilizer was applied: on one-third of the plot, manure at the rate of eight tons per acre, lime at the rate of two tons per acre, and phosphate fertilizer at the rate of 400 pounds per acre; on one-third, manure at the rate of eight tons per acre and phosphate fertilizer at the rate of 400 pounds per acre; on one-third, manure only at the rate of eight tons per acre; on one-sixth acre, Sudan grass was planted in drills, and one one-sixth acre, soy beans were planted in drills, and on one one-sixth acre, a quick crop was planted by the partial summer fallow method. On one-half acre, lime was applied at the rate of two tons per acre and after a sown. A check was also planned.

The results attained were satisfactory according to the agent's report. They demonstrated that Bordeaux was as satisfactory as Paris green as a remedy for blight and that Sudan grass was not cut for hay but was allowed to go to seed. Better results were obtained on lighter soils, but further experimenting will be carried on with this crop next year.

The second project was a very satisfactory growth and proved excellent either for hay or green manure. They are considered a valuable crop for that section as they are nitrogen gathering plants and soil builders. The quick grass eradication by the summer fallow method was also most effective.

The object of the second project carried on by the Eau Claire agent was to look after the home project work of short course students, such as keeping record of the herd on the home farm, use of lime and commercial fertilizers, farm accounting, alfalfa culture, rope work, etc., to be acquired with some conditions of training school and to encourage them in performing on their own farms the progressive agricultural taught in the class room.

The object of the third project was to determine the commercial value of using ammonium sulphate on potatoes. The report of the results of this experiment showed that:

"The plot which received sulphate of ammonia, 150 pounds per acre, muriate of potash, 160 pounds per acre and acid phosphate, 450 pounds per acre, yielded at the rate of 223 bushels per acre.

"The plot not fertilized yielded at the rate of 150 bushels per acre.

"Results show that the sulphate of ammonia gave an increased yield of 63 bushels, the muriate of potash and the acid phosphate, 12 bushels per acre.

In the organization of cow testing associations one organization was effected and three herds were placed under the test with a total of 24 cows.

Married Life on $80 a Month

BY MRS. E. A. LEONARD

"I have a scheme, my dear," Olive Ellison followed Molly to the kitchen and picked up the dish towel pressed to wipe dishes as soon as they were washed.

"Please, dear, don't think you have to work every minute you are in my house," protested Molly. "Do sit down and rest a minute."

"Rest? I am not tired. This is a early morning. Come, you are wasting my waiting and yours, too," she laughed. "Get some dishes washed and then we can get to the scheme."

"You see, I had a bright thought," and I could not rest till I told you," continued Olive.

"Olive as she polished a glass. 'Yes—today while I was over at Jo Parsons' my next-door neighbor, you know, a young lady called to ask her to take her as a boarder. She is a teacher here and can not find a place to board where she can be comfortable. She has tried Mrs. Brown's, but it is noisy there and she wants to be quiet evenings, as she is trying to do some studying. Mrs. Parsons could not take her. This morning I happened to think that you might like to try that way of earning a little thing."

"I would not want to come here, have no good furniture and no money in one boarder," objected Molly after a pause.

"There isn't if you are obliged to enlarge your way of living, but you would be only too glad to come and be one of the family."

"I might see her and talk it over," I would be delighted to do anything to help John out of his tight place," Molly smiled into Olive's face.

"That is a good home and have her up when I go home. I will call to her in this way. I believe you will find that you can get ahead financially in this way. Charge the regular price, just what Mrs. Brown charges, and have everything on a business basis," Olive threw a shawl over her head and hurried off.

Late that afternoon a slight girlish form knocked at the door and it proved to be Miss Travers. She seemed very anxious to come and Molly promised to have the room ready on the following Saturday.

"And John knows nothing about it?" Molly almost gasped as the door closed on her future boarder.

"What do you suppose I have gone and done?" laughed Molly as John sat opposite her at supper.

"You don't look particularly wicked," John smiled into her face unconcernedly.

"Well, I have taken the school teacher to board," exclaimed Molly, throwing the bomb right into camp.

John laid down his knife and fork and stared at his wife.

"Well, Olive Ellison advised it," said Molly, with an air that the last word had been said on a subject.

"She seems to think that it will be a financial help to us and if that is so I do not want to turn the plan down."

"I am afraid it will be too hard and confining for you," objected John.

"Oh, no, it won't, besides I can give it up at any time, you know. It will cost nothing to try," said Molly cheerfully.

HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

BREAK IT GENTLY TO THE COAL MAN.

A meat market proprietor who recently had occasion to diminish the size of his market by one-half and economize in other senses with the same result as the reason for this contraction a statement alleging that the people were eating less meat than they did a few years ago; that the doctors are to blame for the falling off in the demand.

That is encouraging. Dr. Osier's dictum is at last accepted—we eat too much.

Now let's get after the coal man. He enjoys a monopoly in a community of which we consume more than is good for us. There is no doubt that most of us keep our stoves too warm. It is high time to inaugurate a propaganda against the coal man.

The coal man looks with feelings of sadness upon the fact of sleeping on the upstairs porch. He is "no advocate of the open-air school-room," nor the tent was for the treatment of pneumonia, nor the outdoor treatment of anaemia, nervous trouble, tuberculosis and convalescence in general.

Coal dealers used to have a fatter liking for thermometers. They even sent little thermometers around to old and prospective customers as a souvenir of the happy day. But the propaganda against the catching cold dealers has changed all this. Coal dealers these days send customers things like the bill. It seems that people have been abusing the thermometers. Formerly everybody endeavored to see how high the mercury could be kept without breaking the furnace. Now the average householder tries to keep his living-rooms at the lowest possible temperature consistent with physical comfort. For it is getting a little about that the warmer the atmosphere of living apartments, the better for "cold" microbes and catarrhal troubles. The cooler, and hence the more moist, the air, the healthier for everybody in the household from baby to grandma.

This sort of movement, the coal dealer has no patience with at all. Good common sense hygiene like our grandmothers practiced is good enough for him—meaning an average household temperature of about eighty degrees, and the air as dry as the desert of Sahara.

Careful scientific experiments have shown that the fumes, fatigue and listlessness that attend the use of coal where the air is "close" and foul, is largely, perhaps wholly, due to warmth and absence of a draft. Subsequent studies in an airtight apartment felt all the depressing effects of bad air after a reasonable time, but when electric fans and external cooling of the air were started, without admitting fresh air, the symptoms disappeared and the confined subjects felt greatly refreshed. Sixty degrees is about normal.

There are hard times ahead for the coal man.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Fastening.

Would fastening a week be wise for a woman who weighs 190 pounds and has occasional twinges of rheumatism? She has a very hearty appetite.

Answer—It depends upon her height and her physical condition. We do not advise such fasts. We think moderate fasting better, such as cutting out a meal a day for a long time.

Household Hints

SQUAB, DUCK AND CHICKEN RECIPES.

Broiled Squab.—Split squab through back lengthwise. Split the breastbone. Brush all over with melted butter or wrap in thin sliced bacon. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place under gas flame broiler or over glowing coals. Season with heart-shaped pieces of toast, dipped quickly into dripping pan. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and a crescent-shaped lettuce.

Squabs En Casserole.—Dress each and truss three jumbo squabs. Put in casserole, brush over with melted butter, cover and bake ten minutes. Add one-half cup chicken stock, again cover and cook until squabs are tender. Add one cup boiled potatoes, one bunch cooked asparagus and five Bermuda onions, peeled, cut in one-fourth inch slices, broiled over a clear fire. Brush over with melted butter and sprinkle with salt.

Roast Duck.—Clean, stuff and truss a pair of ducks. Place on rack in dripping pan, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover breast of each bird with two thin slices of fat salt pork. If wild ducks are used, bake twenty to thirty minutes in very hot oven, basting every five minutes with fat in pan. If domestic ducks, reduce the heat and bake one and one-quarter hours. Garnish with watercress and serve with orange sauce.

Chicken a la Merange.—Dress and clean chicken, cut in pieces for serving. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and saute in iron frying-pan in salt pork fat until entire surface is well browned. Put in stewpan, pour over merango sauce and cook until chicken is tender. Add finely chopped parsley.

Croquettes from Left-Over Chicken.—To one and one-half cups cold chicken, chop fine, add one cup mashed potatoes, one well-beaten egg, one spoon of butter, two tablespoons thick cream, tablespoon chopped parsley, salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Form into balls, dip in beaten egg and fine bread crumbs, fry in deep smoking hot fat. Drain on brown paper and serve at once.

SANDWICHES FOR ALL PURPOSES.

Potato Salad Sandwiches.—If you want a very good, also a very economical sandwich, make some potato salad with a mayonnaise dressing (only chop finer) and place between thin slices of buttered bread. You will be surprised how delicious these taste.

Toasted Sandwiches.—Often after an entertaining a housewife has a number of bread and butter sandwiches left, too stale to serve. These may form the basis of a bread pudding or they make attractive dish for breakfast, luncheon or supper in the shape of toasted sandwiches. Do not take them apart; lay them between the wires of a toaster and hold over a clear red fire. Toast both sides.

Fried Sandwiches.—Sometimes after a party there are sandwiches left over. Here is a good way of using them up. Make a batter exactly like you use for pancakes, add to it either sugar or salt, according to whether the sandwiches are sweet or savory; dip each sandwich in batter and fry a golden brown in fat. No matter how dry they are they are delicious fried in this way.

FOR CHILDREN'S PARTY.

A cloth pennant is provided for each guest and a card bearing the child's name attached to the top of each. Give tiny buttons are sewed across the top and below this row, one above another, extending toward the point with a space between the third and fourth, are seven more buttons.

A finished pennant hangs on the wall and the children are to hunt for lettered circles like the ones on the completed pennant. These circles are of pasteboard about the size of a silver quarter of a dollar, each with a loop of string at the top to button over the buttons on the pennant. Each circle has a letter printed on it, and the children are to find letters spelling "Happy New Year" and fasten them to the pennant, which is to be taken home as a souvenir of the day.

For a Christmas party use fourteen buttons for "Merry Christmas."

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

When mixing bread, if you find flour too cold, melt the lard before putting it into flour. Turn melted lard into flour and cover a few mo-

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of The Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a son nineteen years old and he is very much in love with a girl of fifteen. He is senior at high school and she is a sophomore. She is the silliest person I have ever seen and actually hasn't a thought in her head. I am not concerned with her and I wanted to send him off to college next year, but he won't go. My son telephones the girl every night that he does not love her and they talk nonsense for an hour or more. They write each other letters, too, let alone seeing each other every day at school and practically every night.

I am desperate. My husband and I have tried entertaining the girl and saying nice things about her to make our boy sick of her. When we saw that only pleased him we began to criticize her and that made him resentful and all the more determined to go with her. Now we have gone back to our old course and endure her for supper at least once a week and put up with her piano banging for a whole evening. Will you please tell me what to do? A MOTHER.

Appears to admire the girl and be very fond of her, but every time you have a chance make fun of her. Laugh the way she does, sit in the position she takes most often, notice her mannerisms and caricature them in your own way. If she really appears to criticize her for a minute. Love her with all your heart. Of course all this must be done when she is not around. Be courteous itself when she is there.

Such a course may act quickly and your son may tire of her in a few weeks' time, but again he may not. Insist upon his going off to school until the day before Christmas, and where his viewpoint will be broadened. After a year away I think he will see the girl in a different light.

Don't take the matter so seriously. Your boy is very young and is sure to get over this love affair in time.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I corresponded with a boy for two years and then we stopped. For over two months I have not heard from him at all and before that time we wrote about once or twice a month. The boy and I were just good friends and nothing more. When we moved away from this town he was very lonely and my letters seemed to cheer him up; but he says he well acquainted now and does not need them any more. Do you think it would be all right for me to send him a Christmas card this year, although he owes me a letter? Understand we were never a letter? BETTY.

In your case it will be all right to send the card.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sixteen years old and I have taken a girl of fifteen home from church so that I have never seen her before. I have never asked me to call. I like this girl very much and would like to go to see her some evening. Don't you think she would ask me to come if I should call? JOHN.

She may be waiting for you to ask for the privilege to call. It will do no harm to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am invited to a dance during the week, and all I have to wear is a white crepe de chine dress that I had for graduation last year. I have never gone to a dance with a boy before and I don't know whether this dress will be all right or not. The girls did not dress up much where I went to dancing of her class, but I really cannot afford to get a new dress and would like to wear the white one if it will do. Do you think it will? DOUBTFUL.

I certainly think your white dress will do.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please give me a recipe for good toilet powder that I can put together at home? MRS. BROWN.

Precipitated chalk, seven drams; powdered starch, one-half dram; powdered orris root, one dram. Mix by sifting several times through coarse muslin.

CHRISTMAS THOUGHTS.

Has that Christmas gift which has a long journey to make started on its way yet?

A letter friend wrote me a pathetic little note last year in which she said of going down to the post office Christmas morning and coming back empty-handed.

I had gotten my package of gifts ready long before, and to be sure they would be on time, she said. "The family to whom I send them are the only people with whom I exchange gifts. They didn't send mine until the day before Christmas, and I got them three days after. Suppose it was silly of me to mind, but everybody about me was having Christmas gifts on Christmas Day and I waited mine."

A Christmas gift not a December 25th gift.

A Christmas gift taken part of its savor by being a Christmas gift, not a December 25th gift. Of course there are occasions when unexpected delays will make you tardy in spite of conscientious efforts to be on time, but there are many people who are habitually careless about getting their presents off. I know one mother whose daughter lives in a city some two hundred miles away. Her gifts haven't come yet. I told me last Christmas, "they always come from three days to a week late. She never starts them until the day before Christmas and last year it was the day after."

There are times when carelessness borders mightily close on selfishness.

When the lard will be cool enough to handle and will sufficiently melt to mix with the flour so it will begin to rise at once.

For House Plants—Put a teaspoonful of castor oil on soil at the foot of a dying palm or a forlorn fern. It will "pick up" and grow like magic.

A Day With Left Overs.

Prepared For The Gazette by Nellie Maxwell of the Department of Farmers' Institutes, University of Wisconsin.

Left overs, like the poor, "are always with us."

There are none who care to know that they are being served with left overs, no matter how appetizing these may be made. Yet, even in the best regulated families there are bits of left over food which, if care and thought is used, may be served again without a suspicion that they are reheated.

The soup kettle has been aptly termed the kitchen waste basket, receiving many a choice culinary scrap which might otherwise go for naught. Foods thrown away as extravagant cooks would feed an entire family, and well.

It is as necessary that the young woman should be trained to spend money wisely and use economy as it is that the young man should supply the money for her use.

Now for a few examples. The bones and carcass of a turkey cracked and put into cold water, then brought to the simmering point and cooked for several hours makes a good flavored broth which may be used in any number of ways—to make soup, as a liquid for meat sauces, and as a flavor for gravy. The bits of meat left on the bones of the carver, if cut in bits, added to thick, well seasoned gravy (also a left over) placed in a baking dish and covered with seasoned mashed potatoes, brushed with egg to make a nice brown crust, then baked in a dish which the entire family will like. A half cupful of stewed tomato, less or more may be added to the turkey bone broth with celery salt, salt, pepper and two tablespoonsful of boiled rice, and you have a fine hot soup to serve on a cold night.

A half cupful of canned salmon is left from a previous meal. Shred the fish with two forks, add a chopped sour pickle, or a few olives, some chopped cabbage and a little celery with a simple boiled dressing, the result is a most appetizing salad which may be served on lettuce or shredded cabbage. Tuna fish is especially good served this way or with hot rice potatoes. Place the hot fish in the center of a hot platter, surround with seasoned rice potatoes, then around this pour a thick, rich, white sauce. When cooking carrots in serve in any ordinary way, reserve a few cooked whole, then later serve them cut in strips seasoned with butter and lemon juice. Serve very hot. A grating of nutmeg, or a dash of cayenne, cayenne pepper is liked by some for a little zest.

Any small amount of cranberry jelly if cut in cubes may be served as a pudding garnish with hard sauce or whipped cream.

SAYS WAR'S CHIEF LESSON FOR U. S. IS NEED OF DEFENCE

Mary Roberts Rinehart.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, the novelist, who spent weeks on the western front, has just returned to the United States. "The one greatest thing that I have brought back from Europe is my sense of our own need," she declares, "our need to defend ourselves."

Fruit juice, left from canned fruit, will make delicious pudding sauces or as liquid in fruit cake and as salad dressings for fruit, particularly if it is light in color, like peach, pear or pineapple juice.

Small pieces of fruit cake or plum pudding if crumbed and mixed with chopped nuts, then stirred into sweetened and flavored whipped cream, makes a most dainty and enjoyable dessert. This may be served in sherbet cups garnished with a cherry or bit of preserved ginger.

Though the subject of left overs is by no means exhausted, these suggestions may prove helpful in some of our difficulties. And we have the best of authority for using economy for the food book says, "Gather up the fragments that remain that nothing may be lost."

Cheap Frozen Meat.

Frozen meat can be shipped from New South Wales to Europe or America for 2 1/2 cents a pound. This charge also includes freezing, bagging, insurance and exchange.

INSURANCE COMBINE GRILLED BY CLEARY AT HEARING TODAY

Companies Composing Workmen's Compensation Bureau Charged With Discrimination Against Wisconsin.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—Eastern insurance companies which write workmen's compensation insurance in Wisconsin, were thrown on the hot grill today when Insurance Commissioner M. J. Cleary opened the formal hearing on the petition of Neal Brown of Wausau, against nineteen eastern insurance companies composing the combine known as the Workmen's Compensation Service Bureau. The hearing will continue several days. H. Crownhart of Superior represents the petitioner, while Byron H. Stebbins represents the respondents. Crownhart, as chairman of the industrial commission for four years, was the chief factor in forcing the insurance companies to reduce their rates on workmen's compensation, at the time when the companies were resisting the principle of the new law.

The present proceedings promise to be far reaching. Practically every employer in the state has an intrinsic interest in the proceeding, notably the employers in important industrial centers like Milwaukee, Superior, La Crosse, Eau Claire, Racine, Kenosha, Janesville, Beloit, Wausau, Green Bay, Marinette, Appleton, Oshkosh, Neenah, Ashland, Madison, Watertown, Fond du Lac, Manitowish and Sheboygan.

The petition claims that the so-called bureau companies discriminate against Wisconsin employers by charging them higher rates than are charged elsewhere. Attorney Crownhart cites several specific examples of such rating discrepancies. It is claimed that Wisconsin rates are maintained at a high level and that because of this fact, the companies took out of this state $1,197,816 in earned premiums in 1914. Attorney Crownhart said in this connection that the companies actually made nearly 35 percent on capital and surplus used in Wisconsin, while on business of the country at large, the same companies lost more than 4 percent. The capital and surplus of the bureau companies now under attack by Mr. Brown, represent the enormous total of $41,468,220.

That the nineteen companies in the combine intend to put up a stiff defense is indicated by the presence here of high officials of the bureau, including Manager Stanley Otis and Actuary Whitney. These officials, through the bureau, represent the following companies which are members of the combine: Aetna, Casualty Company of America, Employers' Liability of London, Fidelity & Casualty, Fidelity & Deposit, Frankfort, Globe Indemnity, Hartford Guarantee, Maryland Casualty, Massachusetts Bonding, New Amsterdam, New England, Ocean Royal, Standard, Travelers, U. S. Casualty and U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty.

RUSSIAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN JAIL

Man Held in Connection With Riot at New Glarus Seeks to End Life By Biting Arteries.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Monroe, Wis., Dec. 14.—Esa Bigoff, the Russian cossack, held in the county jail in connection with the riot at New Glarus in which Joseph Hoboff was shot, and who later died in a Madison hospital from pneumonia, attempted suicide in the Green county jail. Previous to the attempt he had talked over the phone with a fellow countryman at Monticello, who told him of the death of Hoboff. When he had finished talking, Bigoff had to be assisted back to his cell by Sheriff M. B. Solbraa. The man was in a near collapse, evidently having the idea that American justice in his case will be as severe as if the affair with which he is charged occurred in Russia.

Sheriff Solbraa had hardly descended the stairs when he realized something out of the ordinary was transpiring. Rushing back to Bigoff's cell he found the man had torn a handful of his hair and had bitten himself several times on both of his wrists in an effort to tear the arteries, that he might bleed to death. The man was finally quieted and the indications are he suffered merely from temporary insanity.

Bigoff is charged with assault to kill, the case being the outgrowth of the riot of workmen at New Glarus some time ago. At that time he accidentally shot Joseph Hoboff, his cousin when he fired at a man who was grapping with him. Hoboff received treatment for his wounds in a Madison hospital. He was discharged, as cured, but exposure following resulted in him contracting pneumonia, from which he died.

CONTINUES TO TALK ON STATE MATTERS

Senator La Follette Gave Address at Baraboo Monday Evening and Fails to Recognize Facts.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Baraboo, Wis., Dec. 14.—Senator La Follette continued his campaign of misrepresentation of facts before a good sized audience here Monday night at the new Ringling Theatre. The senator continued to assert that the emergency measure by the nineteen fifteen legislature was the first of its kind ever passed when in fact it had been called that a similar measure had been enacted while he was governor.

He defended the university and stated it had been systematically robbed by administrators previous to his taking office as governor, but failed to explain why the progressives used the school trust funds as they did, causing later administrators to pay them back at the rate of a hundred thousand dollars a year.

He laid the high cost of living to increased freight rates and stated that his followers in the 1915 legislature opposed a cut in the university appropriation because it would have cut the salaries of the instructors and have compelled the university to close its doors. He forgot to state also that the Phillip members of the legislature made a special appropriation of $20,000 so that the salaries of the teachers could be raised if need be.

He accused Governor Phillip of bringing Dr. Allen of New York to the state at a large expense, forgetting that Dr. Allen was employed at $10,000 a year by his own progressive followers long before Phillip was even nominated for governor and even discharged by them when he told so many truths about state affairs they could not stand it.

He accused the administration of attacking the dairy interests of the state by articles in a New York press, evidently referring to the McCann series published in the New York Globe, without stating that Commissioner Weigle had already answered McCann in a public statement and that the objectionable features of the dairy industry now existing were the outgrowth of the ultra reform element laws.

He said the high taxes were due to the work on the roads and buildings at the university and state capitol and also by way of good measure State Treasurer Johnson, of the La Follette faction, although he retained Lieutenant Governor Dithmar, Attorney General Owen and Secretary of State Donald, all true and tried followers of the ultra conservatives.

As usual he failed to explain his vote on the democratic tariff and the since becoming United States senator. He urged his audience to write him at a Washington, but failed to state whether he would be there to answer their letters or care for the business they might confide in him.

The speech lacked pep and was received with but a scattering applause. He speaks at Blair tonight, Mondovi Wednesday, Menomonee Thursday, Baldwin Friday and Black River Falls Saturday.

THE GREATEST TRIBUTE EVER PAID TO ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Probably the greatest tribute ever paid to Lincoln came from the pen of an Englishman. As is well known, the aristocracy of England, that is, the ruling classes, were glad at heart to see the division between the North and South in the early sixties. They feared the commercial rivalry of the young colossus growing up among nations. They affected to despise the republican ideals of an English-speaking nation once their dependent vassal. And their great newspapers reflected their attitude with servile humility. For Lincoln, no words could be found vile enough to adequately portray their contempt. And London's "Punch," their leading illustrated journal, spat out its venom week after week with the approval and applause of the snobs who were sent by birth-ability they had not to sit in the House of Lords. Tom Taylor was then a leading contributor to "Punch." He had delighted to caricature the "length shambling limb," the furrowed face, the "quant, gnarled hands," the "unkempt, bristling hair," the "uncouth garb" this "bearing, ill at ease," of the president beloved by the American people. He had shot his shafts of pungent satire and cruel wit unerringly at a shining mark. But when the great war was over, and the gentle, patient leader who had borne the brunt of it, lay on his bier, dead at the hands of an assassin, Taylor suffered the agonies of a remorse that could not be assuaged. It was in this mood that he wrote his "Tribute to Lincoln," and, indeed, he builded better than he knew, through him, and in his verse, spoke the voice of repentant England. It is difficult to say where this most marvelous tribute ever paid by man to mortal man could today be found, outside of "Heart Throbs." But it is there in all the fullness of its glorious praise and eulogy. Our readers are entitled to these two wonderful volumes by means of a coupon offer, to be found daily in these columns.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled.

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it. Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, whooping coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine "Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ON TRIAL

Novelized by Charles N. Lurie from the Great Play by Elmer Reizenstein.

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

"The young girl's face was radiant, although she tried to make it very severe as she went around the table to him, embraced him and asked:

"Will you promise never to do it again?" It was evident that she was much in love with this man, or at least infatuated with him.

And he? His smile was not that of truth as he replied:

"Yes, I promise."

"Oh, that isn't enough," said May. "You must say, 'I'll never, never, never leave you again as long as I live." Say that."

Trask Watched Her Keenly, Over His Coffee Cup.

"I'll never, never, never leave you—How does it go?"

"—again as long as I live."

"—again as long as I live. Is that right?"

"Yes. And now you must ask me to forgive you and kiss me."

"O-h!" said May as they kissed. "You taste of gasoline!"

"Yes, I've been tanking up the car," said Trask, and they sat down to breakfast.

"Why?"

"We're going away this afternoon."

"Going away? Where to?"

"Oh, anywhere you like. There's no fun here. This place is dead."

May's voice was filled with enthusiasm and happiness as she replied:

"But I love this place. It will always be sacred to me—our wedding place."

"Of course there's a lot in that," answered Trask. "Still, it's not very lively."

"Visions of a happy future floated before the eyes of the young girl. 'Every once in awhile, Gerald,' she said, 'years from now, we'll slip down here quietly, just you and I alone, and live this day again, won't we?'

Her enthusiasm found no echo in his voice, but she did not notice his coldness. He said, "Yes; that will be bully."

"I'm so happy, Gerald, dear. Must we keep it quiet long?"

"Yes, quite awhile, I'm afraid."

"Yes."

"Oh, Smith—Walter Smith."

"Do you think he'll be here soon?"

"Some time during the morning," he said.

"It's strange he didn't receive your first message last night, isn't it?"

"There's nothing strange about it. His maid forgot to deliver it, that's all."

"Of course it was too late for him to come down after you telephoned from here."

"Yes, of course, it was almost midnight. I couldn't have asked it of him."

The happiness in the mind of the young woman was crossed—not for the first time that morning and the night before—by a cloud of uneasiness. She could trust her Gerald, of course, and yet—

"I wish he had come last night," she said wistfully.

"Yes; it's too bad he didn't."

"I feel uncomfortable about it."

"I don't see why. A few hours sooner or later—what difference does it make?"

"Well, I guess it doesn't make any difference. I wish, though, you had got some one in the neighborhood."

"I told you I tried. The only clergyman who could have married us is out of town attending a convention."

By this time they had finished their breakfast. He had assured her for perhaps the thousandth time that he would always love her, and had thus stilled her misgivings temporarily, but the thought of the deferred wedding ceremony would rise to the surface of her mind in spite of everything, and they pushed their chairs away from the table, preparatory to rising, she said again:

"I do wish Mr. Smith would come. Don't you think we'd better telephone?"

"Let's be patient a little while longer."

"What will we do if he doesn't come?"

"Well, we must leave here this afternoon."

May's voice sounded as though she were a trifle shocked as she answered:

"But we can't leave here without being married!"

"Why not?"

She was really shocked now: "Why not? Surely, Gerald, you wouldn't want to?"

"I thought we had agreed about that. I don't see what you're worried about. It's only a matter of ceremony, a formality."

"I know, but a girl looks at these things differently."

"Well, if my man doesn't come it would be impossible to be married here anyhow. There's no one else available. Besides, we couldn't get a ring down here."

"Oh, haven't you a ring?"

"No; I forgot it. It's all right, though. I told Wallace to bring one down with him."

Perhaps it was the girl's hypersensitiveness at this time that made her notice the discrepancy in the names. She said quickly:

"Wallace? I thought you said his name was Walter?"

In after years May remembered that he stumbled just a trifle in framing his answer. But at that time the effort passed unnoticed, so eager was she to believe in him and to believe that everything was all right.

"So it is," he answered. "Wallace is a nickname I gave him because he's so proud of his Scotch ancestry."

"I've got a plain gold ring. I'll get it," said May. And she ran into the inner room.

She had hardly left at one end of the room when Innkeeper Russell entered at the other door. In his hand was a piece of paper, a telegram, and his manner was excited. To him Trask said:

"Hello, Russell! What have you got there, dispatches from the front?"

May returned, bearing in her hand a small gold ring. "Gerald, look. Will this do?" she asked.

Russell ignored her. He looked at Trask and said, "I'd like an explanation of this telegram:

"Detain May Deane until I arrive. She is with Gerald Trask."

"Gerald, look; will this do?"

For the first time the curl of deadly fear struck to the heart of May. She turned swiftly on Trask, although her first sentence was directed to Russell:

"What do you mean? GERALD?"

"Keep quiet, I tell you, and let me manage this," Trask said to her.

"What do you want, Russell?"

"You must leave immediately. I've been years building up a reputation for this place, and I don't intend risking it for you or any one else."

"You're d—d independent, old man!" Trask dared up. This isn't the only roadhouse on Long Island, you know."

"I guess I can stand the loss of your business. I want you out by noon, understand that! Young lady, for your sake I hope your father gets here before then."

"If you don't get out of this room I'll kick you out," said Trask.

"If you're not out by noon I'll send for the police," was Russell's last remark before he left the room.

Chinese National Color.

For talismanic purposes red is indispensable in China. It is interwoven with the pigtail, and must form a part of children's clothing. Written charms must also be in red ink on yellow paper to be efficacious against the multitudinous ill omens and evil spirits which seem to surround the Chinaman, and for this reason all imperial decrees are written in vermilion.

"HENRY DEANE."

"From father!" exclaimed May.

Trask turned angrily to her. "What is this? Didn't I tell you?"

"I didn't tell him," said May.

"Well, Mr. Trask," said Russell, "is this young lady your wife, or isn't she?"

"What difference does that make to you?" snarled Trask.

"It makes a great deal of difference to me. You registered as man and wife."

Dinner Stories

"Do you notice anything different about the milk this morning, dear?" asked a young wife.

"Why, yes, now you mention it," replied her lord and master. "It's more—more—that is, it tastes different."

"Quite so!" she cried with a triumphant ring in her voice. "Our last milk was so thin that five days ago I tried a new milkman. He had such splendid milk, George. But I took in a supply for a whole fortnight. I've been wondering every morning when you'd notice it!"

Here is a story which comes from the French trenches via Paris:

A young German lieutenant and his orderly were on patrol duty. One day they had ridden for fourteen hours without a bite of food. At nightfall they came to a battery of heavy artillery. Here they dismounted and asked for supper. The captain in charge of the battery bid them welcome, and remarked:

"You can have some nice turkey for your supper after your long fast."

The meat was produced and the lieutenant took a large mouthful. As he began to chew he glanced up suspiciously at the captain.

"I beg your pardon, captain, but did I understand you to say that this was turkey?"

"Certainly, lieutenant; it is turkey."

The lieutenant ate some more, and then said:

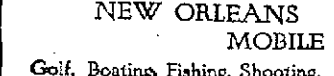

"Are you really sure, Herr Captain, that this is turkey?"

"Oh, quite, sure, Herr Lieutenant. Of course, it's turkey."

The lieutenant ate some more and then, thanking the captain for his hospitality, he turned to his orderly.

"Fritz," said he, "saddle our turkeys!"

Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

No. 25—How Boys and Girls Can Make Money

Boys and girls often feel that they should be grown up, because they believe that grown-ups have all the best chances in life.

There are things that boys and girls can do—and the best way to find these things is to think out some simple plan, and then use the Want Ad columns.

Here are some ideas for boys and girls—and they should not forget that a right start is what paves the way for success when they grow older:

LOOK AFTER LAWN OR FURNACES

BRIGHT BOY, GOOD WORKER. Can do good work and doesn't charge much. Give me a chance. Address:

LET ME LOOK AFTER YOUR FURNACE, take out ashes, sweep the walks, and keep the basement neat. Will come each night after school. Address:

GIRLS CAN HELP AFTER SCHOOL

I AM 14 AND LIKE CHILDREN. I can help you with your children. Haven't you something to let me do? Address:

I WILL TAKE CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN when you go shopping. I charge only 10c an hour and can refer. I can give good references. Address:

Plucky Boys and Girls Get Along the Best

Lots of boys and girls have to help their parents. Some boys and girls have no parents—or are in the city attending school, and want to earn extra money. They can often help in stores after school, or maybe learn some trade after school.

Bright boys and girls will find plenty of men and women willing to help them along, but the safest way is to do your best, and try to make people want to hire you because you do things so well.

To all boys and girls who need a boost,

The Want Ad Can Help Little Folk Succeed!

The Boarding House Back

BY SARA MOORE.

Mr. Whitten was snubbed by everyone from the gorgeously plush front double parlors to the fifth floor back, where the matrons in their print of the aprons adorned every boarder who ever occupied the room. He was one of the middle prosperous inhabitants, being able to afford the big third floor front which overlooks the one tree adorning the boarding house block.

As a work of art, Whitten was a disappointment. He was dull, finished brick red as to complexion; his hair had been sun-blanched to cream and ashes hues on top. One eye was so much larger than its mate it wrongly impressed one as a base indication of the real thing; and when he said good morning his growl indicated that the greeting was only a substitute for a bite.

It took the sentimental Bride to notice that Mr. Whitten had any friendly impulses. She saw that Miss King, the school teacher, was never allowed to be without a napkin, fresh water, salt or silver if Mr. Whitten could pirate things for her from other tables.

He always flung the attention as if hoping to knock her down with it; he never noticed her snappish thanks and clipped good mornings. And Miss King was blind to his favor.

But the other woman saw and pondered. One day the Bride found Mr. Whitten distributing pennies to a band of ragamuffins engaged in beautifully displaying school cards for his approval. In his confusion he explained that he met the smelly little bunch every month and offered rewards for good marks in scholarship and deportment.

He turned from red to guilty purple whenever he caught her eye after that.

The bachelor's secret made the bride more sympathetic. Sometimes she longed to wring Miss King's stiff neck when that brusque spinster squinted the man. However, she saw the school teacher start with involuntary solicitude when Whitten developed a hearty cough. And then she began to suspect that Miss King's opinion of her neighbor was colored by the prejudices of other boarders.

"Mr. Whitten, have you a spoon of strong black thread?" asked the Bride, one rainy Saturday.

"Thread? Thread? No, m'am, I'm sorry. I leave all my sewing to the tailor. Just look at that!" He pointed with some despair to two buttons hanging loosely from their moorings. "If you will get me a spoon of thread when you go for your paper, I'll fix them—and be grateful also to escape a walk in the rain," promised the Bride.

Reluctantly the Bachelor handed over his coat, an hour later. Reluc-antly he complied with her demand for all his darned socks. He was almost apoplectic with embarrassment and gratitude when she triumphantly carried them away.

At four, Miss King dropped into the Bride's room for their customary Saturday afternoon tea to find the occupant pensively sewing away on things that couldn't possibly be owned by her quiet-loving husband.

"They belong to Mr. Whitten," explained the wily Bride. Miss King sat down suddenly. "That awful man!" she began in bewilderment.

"Awful?" shrilled the Bride. "Awful? Why don't you know he is the very kindest and—best—and—"

Of course Miss King simply had to listen to the story. But it was entirely unnecessary for her to hurry to get a thimble and spend her entire evening finishing darning Mr. Whitten's violently colored socks.

AMERICANS FIND THAT IT IS EVEN HARDER TO TRAVEL IN WAR ZONE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Dec. 14. — Difficulties for Americans traveling on the Continent are increasing. Walter Morse Rummel, the American composer and pianist who has been living for many years in Paris, and his wife, formerly Therese Chaigneau, a French pianist, were arrested at Dieppe recently, suspected of being spies.

They were returning home from London where professional engagements recalled them. They had submitted their papers to the French Consulate General in London and had received a safe-conduct to Paris. They had an American passport and a personal letter from Mr. Thackeray, the Consul General. They were searched after their arrest at Dieppe, though nothing suspicious was found, they were detained in a hotel overnight. The next morning Rummel was taken by gendarmes through the streets, followed by children calling out that he was a German. Both he and his wife were locked up in prison until the morning. Rummel's cell companions were two persons accused of theft.

Mr. and Mrs. Rummel were transferred by train to Rouen, imprisoned there in cells, the floors of which were covered with dirt and the walls with obscene drawings. They were there six hours before being able to buy a piece of stale bread and a piece of cheese. Rummel's fellow prisoner was an Apache who confided to him that he had just stabbed a woman. Rummel had at every stage of his experience explained who he was and demanded that the authorities should inquire at the American Embassy in Paris. Luckily he had been able to send a telegram to the Consul General in Paris before being interned. He and his wife were released therefore after forty-eight hours detention altogether upon representations of the American Consul in Rouen.

Mr. Rummel's father and grandfather were British. His mother was the daughter of S. F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph; Rummel happened to have been born in Berlin during a period when his father was there on business. He was registered as British-born at the British Consulate. His parents went to America when he was three years old. After the death of his father, his mother resumed American citizenship. Young Rummel was entitled to take his mother's nationality and did so. The circumstance that he was born in Berlin appears to have drawn upon him the suspicion that he was German.

The American Embassy has gone fully into the affair and has made representations to the Foreign Office upon the indignities Mr. and Mrs. Rummel suffered. They have spent most of their time since the war began in hospital and other charitable work in France, particularly in organizing funds for musicians.

Riches Await the Finding.

There is a highway in South Africa built from the dust and dirt of the diamond mines near by. A man with sharper eyes than his neighbors purchased the right to work over this refuse and from it has produced a fortune in diamond dust. Every day humanity ignores much in the life of the world around and beneath it—or at least fails to consider it as a factor in the discovery of truth. Gold can be mined wherever human hearts abound.

FIX APPORTIONMENT STATE SCHOOL FUNDS

Janesville's Share Will be $10,898, According to Cary's Figures.—
Rate of $2.85 Per Capita.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—Every child of school age will bring to its district the sum of $2.85 in state aid, according to the state apportionment of the seven and one-half common school taxes announced by State Superintendent C. P. Cary today. In Milwaukee the children will bring state aid of $2.85 per capita.

According to the compilations of the state superintendent there are 788,703 children of school age in the state compared with 781,028 children last year, an increase of 7,675. In Milwaukee alone the increase in children of school age was 6,060.

On the basis of this compilation the city of Ashland will receive $12,333.50; Superior, $28,055.40; Madison, $22,255.00; Oshkosh, $27,421.25; Milwaukee, $386,998.70; La Crosse, $26,000.25; Beloit, $11,736.00; Janesville, $10,898.40; Racine, $25,399.35; Monroe, $1,779.20; Eau Claire, $17,206.45; Manitowish, $14,124.60 and Fond du Lac, $15,056.55.

The total amount received from the common school fund for apportionment is $221,083.13. The total amount received from the seven and one-half mill tax is $2,109,812.70. This must be added $200,000 in corporation fees, making a total to be distributed, $2,310,895.83.

Before this amount can be distributed the law requires that certain deductions shall be made. The sum of $18,500 is set aside to give state aid to school districts putting in ventilating systems, etc. $10,000 is set aside for the transportation of school children; $84,500 to pay salaries of supervising teachers; $50,000 to pay the bonuses to teachers in increased salaries, where the teacher has remained more than one year in the same school; $30,500 is withheld from districts that have not complied with the law as to keeping their school open a certain number of days each year and repaying the school houses; and $10,000 is withheld from the teachers' retirement fund as the 10-cent per capita tax outside of Milwaukee on each child of school age for the support of the teachers' retirement fund.

This leaves a net total to be distributed, after all deductions have been made of $2,356,173.83, inasmuch as the 10-cent rate per capita for the support of the retirement fund does not apply to Milwaukee the rate for the state is $2.85 per child and for Milwaukee the rate per capita is $2.85.

There were twenty-five school districts in the state, out of a total of about 6,000, who were deprived of the right to share in the aid, because they did not keep their schools open 100 days each year. Six other districts lost their state aid because they did not pay their teachers a salary of $40 a month as required by law and in three districts were deprived of aid because their school buildings were condemned and the directors and electors of the district, have failed to authorize the erection of new buildings.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Dec. 14.—The New Century club had a "quest" night meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. A. E. Hansen on Fremont street, and a goodly number enjoyed the entertainment. Refreshments were served and all had a delightful time.

Yesterday afternoon the Junior club and their guests enjoyed a "drama" meeting at the home of Mrs. R. H. Dixon. Mrs. H. C. ## Sonora Phonographs

A Musical Instrument of Quality
Clear as a Bell

First, the most important part in regard to the Sonora is the beautiful quality of tone, the quality that is natural or like the original voice, the same with the Piano, Harp, Violin, Flute, Banjo, Orchestra or Band Instruments. Talking Machines are common on the market with plenty of noise. But when it comes right down to quality the SONORA stands as a leader among the phonographs of the world. It plays all disc records with quality, if the quality has been put into the record. Word received this morning that the SONORA would be shipped to-day from Chicago; if so, they will arrive tomorrow, sometime during the day. Call and see them before you decide on your purchase.

The Usual Trouble With Placing a Want Ad. In the Gazette Is That There Are More Calls Than Articles To Sell

Try it and see. Maybe you have something about the house which could be sold, giving you extra Christmas money.

READ WHAT MR. BOOHER DID.

Gazette Pub. Co., Janesville, Wis., Dec. 11, 1915.

Gentlemen: I ran an adv. in the Gazette on Dec. 4, Tues.,
Dec. 7, and Thurs., Dec. 9, as follows:

FOR SALE-Extra choice S. C. Rhode Island Red cockerels, reasonable.
Old phone 1898. David Booher, Sugar
Beet Factory.

I had one call on Saturday night, two calls on Sunday, two calls Monday, two calls Tuesday, five on Wednesday, six on Thursday, and three on Friday. I had twenty cockerels when I ran the above adv. and I sold all of them, and could have sold more of them if I had them. I think that this shows beyond any doubt that it pays to advertise in the Gazette.

Respectfully Yours,

DAVID W. BOOHER.

FORTY YEARS AGO

From Janesville Daily Gazette Dec.
14, 1875.-Beer is worthy from fifty to ninety cents a bushel in this city in the shape of barley, and load after load is being brought to the market.

The house on Bluff street, in the second ward, partially destroyed by fire two or three weeks ago, and owned by Mr. Silby of Shopiere, is being repaired.

Our genial friend, Mr. H. A. Smith, who is the veritable S. O. P. has been confined to his home for the past week on account of sickness, but was going down his throat.

out today and attending to business.
Pittsburg, Dec. 14.-Last night a fire occurred at Freedom, Beaver county, which destroyed Mueller's dry goods store and the residence of D. E.
Dowery. Loss, $12,000; covered by four thousand insurance.

Milton, Dec. 14.-There is a man in this burgh who has considerable to do with crooked whiskey, but the government has decided not to arrest him. The whiskey became crooked week on account of sickness, but was going down his throat.
